is Giving Poverty the Boot in 2011!

FARM-Africa is a charity working with rural communities in Africa: providing people with the training, seeds, tools and livestock they need to farm their way out of poverty.

We want to fight hunger by farming Africa.

So let's get GROWING!

"My number one intention is to be able to feed my family during drought"
 Bali, father of two, from Ethiopia, installed a drip irrigation system with FARM-Africa's support.

"I have heard that the new cassava variety matures in 8 months - I will be able to have two harvests in the time I used to have just one" says John Gambo. FARM-Africa helped John and his family to start growing a new type of fast maturing, disease resistant cassava.

Our grand total:

£240

could help establish a demonstration plot, providing an area where groups of farmers can test different seeds and techniques and find out which ones perform best and produce the biggest harvests.

£180

could help pay for the training and materials a farmer needs to build a shallow well on his land, providing precious water to grow vegetables and fruits such as kale, tomatoes and papaya.

£120

could help pay for a training session with an agricultural expert. Simple techniques such as intercropping can improve the quality of farmers' soil and the size of their harvest.

£60

could help provide two farmers with seeds that will thrive in harsh conditions, providing nutritious food for their families plus a surplus to sell at market.
